

A-G wants cops to probe further into NFC

PUTRAJAYA: Investigation papers on the National Feedlot Corporation (NFC) have been returned to the police, the Attorney-General's Chambers said.

In confirming the matter, its head of prosecution, Tun Abdul Majid Tun Hamzah said it wanted the police to investigate the case further.

"The police had delivered the report to us on Tuesday, but we have since returned the papers," he told the New Straits Times yesterday.

The police had on Monday completed their investigation after recording 54 statements, including those from NFC.

The controversy surrounding NFC started after the 2010 Auditor-General's Report described the project as "messy" and had failed to meet government targets.

NFC is the meat-valley project in Gemas, Negri Sembilan, aimed at increasing the production of meat and reducing dependency on import for such products.

The controversy started when it was highlighted that the corporation's chairman was Datuk Seri Dr Mohamed Salleh Ismail, the husband of Women, Family and Community Development Minister Datuk Seri Shahrizat Abdul Jalil.
