MCC Dan DVS Sarawak Anjur Kempen Vaksinasi Anti-Rabies Besar-Besaran Di Miri Ogos Ini. Majlis Bandaraya Miri (MCC) dan Jabatan Perkhidmatan Veterinar Sarawak (DVSS) Cawangan Miri akan menjalankan program vaksinasi anti-rabies untuk anjing di tempat letak kereta Pasar Taman Tunku pada 3 dan 4 Ogos.

Datuk Bandar Miri, Adam Yii Siew Sang, menasihatkan pemilik haiwan peliharaan untuk membawa kad pengenalan mereka untuk pendaftaran dan memastikan anjing mereka diikat. Anjing yang takut kepada orang asing atau agresif digalakkan untuk memakai muncung (muzzles).

Selepas vaksin, anjing mesti dikuarantin selama 28 hari di rumah untuk membina imuniti terhadap rabies. Mereka mesti memastikan anjing mereka berada dalam kawasan rumah sahaja.

Menurut laporan, Yii menegaskan bahawa semua anjing di Sarawak wajib divaksin mengikut Perintah Vaksinasi Anti-Rabies. Kegagalan mematuhi boleh mengakibatkan denda sehingga RM2,500 di bawah Ordinan Kesihatan Awam Veterinar (VPHO) 1999. DVSS juga boleh menahan anjing tanpa bukti vaksinasi.

Pemilik yang membiarkan anjing berkeliaran bebas boleh didenda sehingga RM2,500. Anjing mesti dikawal sama ada dalam kawasan tertutup, diikat, atau dipimpin dengan rantai atau tali yang kukuh.

Pihak Berkuasa Tempatan berhak menangkap anjing yang tidak diikat mengikut undang-undang kecil yang berkuat kuasa.-

The Sun	Local	Online	30 Julai

PETALING JAYA: The Department of Veterinary Services (DVS) has reported an alarming rise of animal abuse cases reported from 2021 until now.

In a statement, the DVS confirmed gradually receiving reports of these incidents from 2021 now amounting to 7,613 reports this year, the New Straits Times reported.

The government body received 1,249 reports in 2021, 1,580 reports in 2022 and recorded a "sharp increase", as quoted, in 2023 with 2,622 complaints.

This year alone saw 2,162 complaints recorded from January until June, numbers adding up from the previous years.

It was said that Selangor recorded the highest amount of reports at 3,334 complaints along with Kuala Lumpur at 1,113 complaints.

Other states nationwide include Johor at 800 complaints, Penang (695), Perak (491), Negeri Sembilan (410), Kedah (280), Pahang (152), and Melaka (145).

Meanwhile, Kelantan, Perlis, Terengganu, Putrajaya, and Labuan reported only “double-digit cases”, as quoted.

DVS added that they have received reports of cats thrown or dropped from high places, taking action from 2020 until May this year.

The animal welfare body also confirmed prosecuting 52 individuals, with nine in jail for animal cruelty.

Not only that, 30 individuals were imposed fines amounting to RM970,800 while four others were placed on good behaviour bonds.-

KUALA LUMPUR: Reports of animal abuse and neglect in Malaysia have dramatically increased, with the Department of Veterinary Services (DVS) receiving 7,613 reports from 2021 to now.

"In 2021, we received 1,249 reports, while 1,580 were recorded in 2022. However, in 2023, there was a sharp increase with 2,622 complaints.

"From January to June this year, 2,162 complaints have already been received," it said in a statement.

Selangor tops the list with 3,334 complaints, followed by Kuala Lumpur with 1,113.

Johor recorded 800 cases, Penang (695), Perak (491), Negeri Sembilan (410), Kedah (280), Pahang (152), and Melaka (145). Kelantan, Perlis, Terengganu, Putrajaya, and Labuan reported only double-digit cases.

Dogs were the most reported abused animals, with 5,226 cases, followed by cats (1,900), horses (178), rabbits (157), birds (122), and cows (105). Other reported animals include exotic species (78), chickens (74), hamsters (60), goats (49), guinea pigs (42), geese (37), fish, ducks, and turtles (25 each), and snakes (20).

The department confirmed four cases of cats being thrown or dropped from high floors, with action taken on all from 2020 to May this year.

"We have also prosecuted 52 individuals, with nine sentenced to prison for animal cruelty. Additionally, fines totaling RM970,800 were imposed on 30 offenders, and four individuals were placed on good behaviour bonds," it said.

DVS has advised the public to be more responsible given the increase in animal abuse and neglect reports they have received.

"We can categorise pet owners into two groups: those who consider their pets as part of the family and ensure all their needs are met.

"But there is also a small segment of our society who are interested in having pets for fun or to follow trends.

"These people can be categorised as lacking in knowledge and experience or unable to take on the responsibility of ensuring the welfare, health, care, and attention for their pets.

"Some within this group neglect their pets if they feel the animal is no longer needed or serves no purpose to them," it said.

Since 2015, various animal welfare and legal awareness campaigns have been conducted.

A 2021 study found that 90 per cent of respondents are aware of the five basic animal needs and are willing to pay more for good animal welfare.

The animal welfare complaints portal, fully implemented on March 1, 2021, has seen a rise in complaints.-NST

Rise In Animal Abuse Reports Shows Greater Public Concern, Says DVS

DVS,Complaints,Reports

KUALA LUMPUR: The public is becoming increasingly concerned about animal abuse cases with complaints showing an upward trend.

He said the increase did not necessarily indicate an increase in actual abuse cases but reflected the community's concern."When we conduct our investigations only a few cases actually involve neglect or abuse," he said on the programme Apa Khabar Malaysia over Bernama TV on Monday . According to Dr Suratan, the most complaints received involved dogs , followed by cats .Other reports of abuse or neglect involved horses, rabbits and birds, he added.

Meanwhile, neglect is defined as a failure to provide basic aspects of animal welfare, such as a suitable home environment, health care and adequate food under Section 34 of the same Act.-HEADTOPICS
