Ipoh City Council Addresses Viral Video Concerns, Denies Dogs Buried Alive

Malay Mail

IPOH, July 23 — The Ipoh City Council today confirmed that the burial of several dogs at a pound in Lahat, which went viral in a video yesterday, but denied the animals were buried alive as alleged.

The council's enforcement and safety director, Ahmad Zaiyadi Sudin, said the dogs were euthanised prior to the burial, which he insisted was in line with standard operating procedures (SOP).

"The disposal method used was 'put to sleep' (PTS), carried out in collaboration with the Department of Veterinary Services (DVS)," he said at a press conference at the Perak Darul Ridzuan Building.

"This is a globally accepted and humane method of euthanising stray animals under Section 32E of the Animal Welfare Act and local dog licensing by-laws."

Ahmad explained that the dogs shown in the video were already euthanised.

"If the dogs were alive, they would have certainly run away. Clearly, that did not happen," he asserted.

He said that PTS is only used after a mandatory three-day holding period, during which owners can reclaim their pets.

“These dogs were caught based on complaints — such as biting, aggressive chasing, or being left to roam the streets. If no one comes forward within three days, the animals are assessed by the DVS and, if deemed necessary, euthanised humanely.”

Long-term solutions needed

Ahmad noted that stray dog complaints in Ipoh remain high, with 740 complaints about strays and 201 involving pet dogs received between January 1 and July 20 this year.

He added that 35 dogs were euthanised on the day of the recent incident, part of a total of 270 since last year, many of which had health issues or were involved in serious incidents.

Also present at the press conference, Perak Local Government Committee Chairman Sandra Ng Shy Ching stressed that while PTS is a legal last resort, with the government actively pursuing long-term solutions.

“We are not relying solely on euthanasia. We’re tackling the root causes through public awareness, responsible pet ownership, and collaboration with non-governmental organisations (NGOs),” Ng said.

She highlighted initiatives under the Perak Pawsitive programme, including subsidised neutering campaigns, a proposed microchip registration system, and engagement sessions between local councils and animal rescuers to build mutual understanding.

Since the campaign's launch last year, 301 dogs and 254 cats have been neutered.

Ng also explained the shift from a Trap-Neuter-Return (TNR) approach, which she said proved ineffective due to continued complaints, to a Trap-Neuter-Rehome (TNRh) method.

“However, the adoption rate in the state remains very low,” she noted.

Ng expressed regret over the spread of misinformation regarding the incident, which sparked public outrage, and warned that the state would not hesitate to take legal action against those spreading false claims.

The viral footage, which circulated widely yesterday, drew outrage and calls for accountability from animal lovers and NGOs.

Ipoh Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ISPCA) president Ricky Soong described the scenes in the video as “heartbreaking” and “inhumane.”-YAHOO!NEWS

City Council Under Fire As Protest Erupts Over Stray Dog Culling In Ipoh

Malay Mail

IPOH, July 23 — Approximately 100 members from various animal rights groups gathered today to protest the Ipoh City Council's policy of euthanising stray dogs.

The group staged a protest outside the council's enforcement department office, voicing outrage over the recent euthanasia and burial of several dogs at a pound in Lahat, which they claim was done inhumanely and in violation of previous agreements.

Jesse Morrias, president of Persatuan Pencinta Anjing Jalanan Ipoh Perak, said the NGOs were not informed about the council's decision to implement the "put to sleep" (PTS) policy.

"When the council introduced this PTS policy, they should have informed all the NGOs. They claimed to have sent letters, but that's not true," she told reporters.

"If we had known, there wouldn't be such a viral public outcry. Only after the video went viral did they hold a meeting — and most NGOs weren't even invited."

Jesse also questioned the necessity of the policy, pointing out that the city council had previously agreed with NGOs to carry out a Trap-Neuter-Release and Manage (TNRM) programme, under which neutered stray dogs were released and managed, not euthanised.

“Some of the dogs shown in the video with cropped ears were part of the TNRM programme. This is not the way to handle things. The programme was funded by public donations.

“Killing these dogs defeats the purpose of TNRM and wastes public resources,” she said.

Ricky Soong, the president of the Ipoh Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ISPCA), urged the authorities to be transparent about their procedures for euthanising strays.

“We haven’t been given any clear explanation — why the dogs were caught, or why they were euthanised. That’s why we are here today: to demand answers,” he said.

Soong also disputed the city council’s claim that no one came forward to claim the captured dogs, saying that some NGO members who visited the enforcement department were told the dogs had already been sent to the Papan landfill.

He added that the state government should allocate land for NGOs to continue the TNRM programme, as many shelters are currently operating beyond capacity.

During the protest, Perak MCA information chief Chung Kuk Heung announced that the party had submitted a memorandum signed by over 100 individuals to the Ipoh Mayor and Perak Menteri Besar.

The memorandum, supported by several NGOs, calls for a full, independent investigation into the incident, disciplinary action against any responsible parties, and full disclosure and auditing of the council’s SOPs for managing strays.

This protest came after a press conference earlier today where the council’s enforcement and safety director, Ahmad Zaiyadi Sudin, denied claims that the dogs were buried alive.

He insisted that the euthanasia was carried out in accordance with SOP after a mandatory three-day holding period for dogs caught following public complaints.-

Tag Fizikal Wajib Untuk Ternakan Lembu, Kerbau Di Melaka Mulai Ogos

AYER KEROH, 22 Julai – Bermula Ogos ini, penternak di Melaka diwajibkan memasang tanda pengenalan berbentuk tag fizikal pada ternakan mereka, khususnya lembu dan kerbau, sebagai langkah kawalan dan keselamatan serta penguatkuasaan undang-undang.

EXCO Kemajuan Desa, Pertanian dan Keterjaminan Makanan Negeri, Datuk Dr. Muhamad Akmal Saleh berkata, pindaan terhadap Undang-Undang Kecil Pelesenan Haiwan Ternakan akan dilaksanakan bagi mewajibkan semua penternak mendaftarkan ternakan masing-masing.

Katanya, langkah itu akan memudahkan pihak berkuasa mengenal pasti pemilik haiwan ternakan yang berkeliaran, seterusnya memudahkan tindakan undang-undang terhadap mereka yang cuai.

“Bila ianya diwajibkan, orang kampung boleh ambil nombor tag, rujuk kepada Jabatan Veterinar. Kalau ada gambar atau video, boleh terus buat laporan kepada PBT untuk tindakan.

"Denda maksimum bawah undang-undang kecil ini adalah RM2,000 dan penjara setahun. Insya-Allah, kita juga akan cadangkan gubal Enakmen Haiwan Berkeliaran Negeri Melaka bagi memperkukuh hukuman," katanya.

Beliau berkata demikian dalam sidang media selepas Persidangan Kedua, Penggal Keempat Dewan Undangan Negeri Melaka ke-15 di Seri Negeri, Ayer Keroh.

Pelaksanaan tag itu bertujuan mengatasi isu lembu dan kerbau berkeliaran yang sering mendatangkan masalah kepada penduduk kampung, merosakkan tanaman dan mengundang risiko kemalangan jalan raya, termasuk insiden maut.

Dr. Akmal turut memaklumkan, mulai tahun hadapan, sistem tag fizikal akan dipertingkat dengan penggunaan Kod QR bagi memudahkan semakan oleh pihak penguat kuasa mahupun orang awam.

Penternak diberikan tempoh tiga hingga empat bulan untuk melengkapkan proses pendaftaran ternakan mereka di Jabatan Perkhidmatan Veterinar Negeri Melaka.-BERITARTM
